

ROSADALIS

THE GRANDE SOUTHERN

remedy for the cure of Scrofula, Scurf, Taint, Rheumatism, White Swelling, Gout, Gout, Consumption, Bronchitis, Nervous Debility and all diseases arising from an impure condition of the Blood.

The merits of this valuable preparation are well known; so that a passing notice is but necessary to remind the readers of this journal of the necessity of always having a bottle of this medicine among their stock of family necessities.

Certificates can be presented from many leading Physicians, Ministers and heads of families throughout the South, endorsing in the highest terms "The Grand Southern Remedy."

Dr. R. Wilson, Clerk of Barbershop, says "I have had it in cases of Scrofula and other diseases with such satisfactory results."

Dr. T. C. Prugh of Baltimore recommends it to all persons suffering with disease of blood, saying it is superior to any preparation he has ever used.

Rev. DeBney, Dall of the Baltimore M. E. Conference South says he has been so much delighted by its success that he cheerfully recommends it to all his friends and acquaintances.

Carey & Co., Druggists, at Gorhamville, Vt., say "It never failed to give satisfaction."

McFadden, Murfreesboro, Tennessee, says it cured him of Rheumatism when all else failed.

Rev. Mr. Williams, proprietor of a package. Show it to your druggist, who will tell you it is composed of the strongest astringents that exist, and is an excellent Blood Purifier.

Did our species admit we could give you testimonials from every State in the South and from persons known to every man, woman and child either personally or by reputation.

Rosadalis is sold by all Druggists.

Why Endure What is Curable?

"What can't be cured must be endured," says the proverb; but indigestion can be cured, therefore it is the merest stupidity to endure it. Diabetics have certainly right to continue to expect to the end of their days if they chose, but it is not supposed that any rational being prefers physical torment to ease and health, the probability is that all suffers from Indigestion are convinced that an absolute, infallible remedy for their complaint existed, they would with one accord resort to it. We more emphatically declare that such a remedy does exist; and that its name is Rosadalis's Sarsaparilla Bitters.

The completion of the Missouri, Kansas & Texas Railroad from the North to Denison, Texas, has opened up two first-class, all-call Routes to St. Louis and the East. (664 miles from St. Louis,) the trains of this "Pioneer" line from the North connect with trains of that new and splendid line, the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad, and thence with the Central Missouri Pacific Railroad.

It is a good road—thoroughly equipped with all modern improvements—and lands its passengers in St. Louis, the Metropolis of the Great West, in time to connect with seven through routes to the North, South and East.

THE ST. LOUIS ROUTE

is destined to become the popular one to all points East. Passengers have a choice of routes over the Missouri, Kansas & Texas Railroad, or via Sedalia and the Missouri Pacific Railroad. Full information may be obtained at the offices of the Houston & Texas Central R. R., El Paso Mail line, Missouri, Kansas & Texas Railroad, or upon addressing E. A. Ford, General Passenger Agent, St. Louis, Mo. [Feb. 8, 1873.]

The Dying Prodigal.

BY MRS. C. A. LESTAGETTE, OF WACO.

long, the faint and weary, boyhood's home to see,

and pray'd that death might carry to grant the boon to me;

friends, I'd ask forgiveness, for oft I give them pain;

But my link to life is broken, I never can sin again;

My past, my days are numbered, that hour I'll never see;

For life, with all its follies, is closing fast with brief space of time left me, with earthly things I've done;

The hour-glass tells me truly, its sands are nearly run;

While on my bed I languish, how oft I dream of home;

And dear familiar faces around my pillow come,

The world I would have given, to see them once again;

That is that which gives me patience and strength to bear with pain;

The thought of death is fearful, so far away from home;

Oh! lone must be the resting place, where friends could never come;

My mother's gentle image bends nightly o'er my bed;

And I dream it on her bosom I rest my weary head;

Her touch would still the aching that rends my aching brow;

Her voice haunts me often, I hear it even now;

But when the dream is over, another's for I see;

I weep the vain illusion, no mother comes to me;

I know that she is weeping beside the old hearthstone;

I know that she is weeping for the dear and absent one;

She knows that the death-damp is gathering on my brow,

Or that the grave is throwing its darkness o'er me now;

But I dream it is the death-damp that gathers on my brow;

And I dream it is the grave that throws its darkness o'er me now;

Or that the grave is throwing its darkness o'er me now;

But I dream it is the death-damp that gathers on my brow;

And I dream it is the grave that throws its darkness o'er me now;

Or that the grave is throwing its darkness o'er me now;

But I dream it is the death-damp that gathers on my brow;

And I dream it is the grave that throws its darkness o'er me now;

Or that the grave is throwing its darkness o'er me now;

But I dream it is the death-damp that gathers on my brow;

And I dream it is the grave that throws its darkness o'er me now;

Or that the grave is throwing its darkness o'er me now;

But I dream it is the death-damp that gathers on my brow;

And I dream it is the grave that throws its darkness o'er me now;

Or that the grave is throwing its darkness o'er me now;</
